

Anthony Hoff
Executive Chef, City Fish Market

With more than 15 years of culinary experience, Chef Anthony Hoff brings a wide variety of cooking styles and techniques to his position as executive chef of the City Fish Market. Chef Anthony's experience and relationships with deep sea fisherman and the highest quality suppliers of pristine fish, along with his unique point of view will make his dishes distinctive and award winning.

From a young age, growing up in the Philippines, Chef Anthony's passion developed while watching various international cooking shows and helping his mother prepare traditional meals in the kitchen for his family.

At the age of 12, Chef Anthony and his family moved to Maryland, where he began what would become his career in the restaurant industry. After only one month of working as a dishwasher in a small local restaurant, his enthusiasm for food was apparent and he was promoted to preparing food on the line.

Chef Anthony pursued his passion when he attended Johnson and Wales University in North Miami, Florida and obtained a degree in culinary arts. After graduating, he held several positions at Baleen, Café Tabac and Poppy and Grand Café Orsini. Chef Anthony furthered his training while working with noted executive chefs in the industry such as Claude Troigros, Robin Hass and Piero Premoli, current executive chef of Pricci, a sister restaurant to City Fish Market in Atlanta.

Chef Anthony resides in the Miami area, where while he recently honed his skills in the preparation of many varieties of fish and shellfish at The Oceanaire Seafood Room, earning several honorable ratings such as Best Seafood by the Miami Herald, Miami New Times and the Sunpost and top Zagat ratings.

"I am excited about being a part of such a unique concept and such a top-notch company as Buckhead Life Restaurant Group," said Chef Anthony. "City Fish Market will highlight the best local seafood and service while keeping prices affordable."

In his leisure time, he enjoys golf, watching the Miami Dolphins, and listening to reggae music.
